

FREETIME

The return of the county's art festival will have lots on show for residents

By James Richings

AS Covid restrictions ease, anticipation is mounting as over 400 Artisans throughout Buckinghamshire prepare to welcome members of the public into their studios and exhibition spaces once more.

With free admission to all venues, Bucks Art Weeks has been bringing the wonderful world of contemporary artists and makers to the public since 1985 and this year's event promises an array of artistic talent like never before.

None more so than at Flexmore Farm, Chalfont St Giles where an eclectic multi-talented group of 14 artists and makers will be once again exhibiting in the barn - one of the largest groups at any one Bucks Art Weeks venue.

Courtesy of owners Vicky and Stephen Hinds, the space - which started life as a cow barn - has been made available to the Flexmore Art and Craft group for the duration of the event in the interests of promoting local original art about which they are passionate.

This year's exhibitors are Zoe Albright, Gaynor Barton, Sharon Bennett, Claire Burke, Paul Busby, Mary Clare-Jolliffe, Bronwen Corral, Heidi Fenn, Georgina Peachy-Saunders, Claire Rollinson, Sarah Ruspasinghe, Carol Saunders, Sylvie Valentine and Carolyn Worrall.

Flexmore Barn opening times:

June 12 & 13: 11-5pm (Sat & Sun)

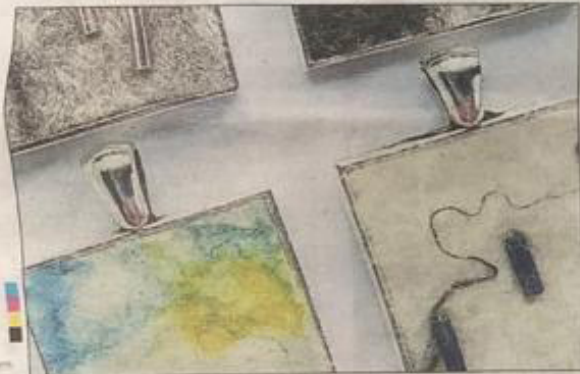

June 17, 18, 19 & 20: 11-5pm (Thurs, Fri, Sat, Sun)

June 24, 25, 26, 27: 11-5pm (Thurs, Fri, Sat, Sun*)

* Closing at 4pm Sunday 27th

Many pieces of art will be on show throughout the month

Lots of different art will be on show

Art Weeks will take place this month

There are many artists in Buckinghamshire

There will be lots for artists to enjoy

Some of the artwork